POINT ADVANTAGES OF INTERMEDIATE SCHOOL TO TRAIN

Employers Confer With School Investigators on Training of Pupil for Job.—Show Good of Junior Grades.

"During the past few years," explained Dr. Terry of the state department of education to a number of men gathered together last night for a conference of the employers of labor and the men who are conducting the survey of the Janesville school system, "and especially of late, the thought has grown up that the first six grades are time enough in which to give that absolutely necessary education which every person should have. For many years we have thought that eight was right, but now we realize that the work of the last two years of the grade school, the seventh and eighth grades, is very unsatisfactory. In six years work the child learns how to read and write and certain other elements of knowledge that are essential."

"At present, much of our seventh and eighth grade work is lost, is wasted so far as its worth to the child in preparing him for a position in life is concerned. There exists a similarity between these two grades and the first year of the high school in the minds of many parents placing the three grades together in an intermediate school or junior high school. Better results educationally are obtained, and the children profit by association with others more nearly their equals in schooling."

"There are two fundamental ideas underlying the establishment of a school system of this nature. In considering the first of these, the adaptation of the work more closely to the ability and inclination of the pupil, it must be recognized that there is scarcely an ungraded class in any of the high schools in which there are not many who could do far more work than is required of them. Such a condition is demoralizing for the pupils; naturally they will shrink from given enough to do. Much of their work is for them baby work, and they lose respect for the school and the teachers. It is hoped that the new scheme of combining the seventh and eighth grades with the first year of high school, the work can be so organized as to meet the ability and adapt itself to the inclinations of the students."

"In the second place, there exists now a great deficiency in our schools because they do not give the pupils any knowledge of the trades and various lines of business into which they will go, nor is any provision made for reaching a decision as to what to do with the child at the end of the work. The student leaves high school with no definite idea of what he wants to do, no training in anything technical, and no conception of his capabilities and ability. Throughout all the latter part of the school course they should be given definite instruction in the various trades in the line to which they show preference and are especially adapted. Such a system could be most advantageously started in the junior high school. Brief courses could be given in the various trades from which the pupil could pick the one he wanted. Then upon reaching the senior high school he could work towards a definite end, perfecting himself technically in this one line by means of advanced courses and at the same time could acquire a general education. Instruction could be given not only in the technical ends of the various trades, but in their advantages, the opportunities for advancement, the social standing of the workers, and in short all possible information could be given the prospective worker. "The plan is most reasonable and wherever tried has been found most satisfactory. Many cities are reorganizing their school systems to provide for this division of the work. Only recently Waukesha appropriated $200,000 for a magnificent building in which will be housed both the junior and senior schools, the two to be entirely separated, however. Menominee, Michigan, has also adopted this system, and many cities throughout the middle west have tried it successfully."

In response to the questions of the surveyors as to what the employee needed from the schools to better fit him for work, a number of suggestions were made by the employers at this meeting. It was brought out that a more thorough and more scientific knowledge of manual training would better prepare boys to enter any of the manual arts. The question of theoretical to fit everyone for life, to provide the knowledge necessary to run a home, to plan a house, to supervise its decoration, as opposed to a more technical and narrow training of a few boys opened up discussion, and the thought was developed that the two might be successfully combined, especially in a junior-senior high school system.

"I find the greatest handicap a prospective employer has under," said Russell Parker, of the Parker Pen company, "is a great embarrassment. A self-consciousness that prevents them from selling what he has to sell. They are not a man or a woman could be trained in the school to meet people easily and confidently. The chances of securing good positions would be much greater."

LOYALTY RESOLUTION PASSED BY WOODMEN

At the county camp of the Modern Woodmen held in this city yesterday, P. E. Star, delivered the address of welcome, which was responded to by Mayor H. W. Adams of Beloit. Both addresses breathed not only the love of home and country, but also a message for loyalty and allegiance to our flag, country and government. The following were elected as delegates to the state camp: P. Thorpe, W. R. Patterson, Evansville, T. M. Lien, Beloit, and W. R. Thorpe, Milton Junction. A resolution was passed by the camp, which was adopted by the American flag, and pledge our full support to the president and congress of the United States, at this critical period of our national affairs. After the meeting the delegates were entertained at the Majestic theatre. Harmony and enthusiasm pervaded all the deliberations of the camp. The next territorial county camp will be held in the city of Beloit.

FORMER JANESVILLE GIRL IS WEDDED IN ROCKFORD

Miss Ruth Marian Gifford of Milton, formerly of this city, and Dean D. Garnette of Chicago were quietly married in Rockford Monday, April 2, by the Rev. S. H. Smith of the Court Street M. E. church. Miss Gifford for the past year and a half has been in training at the Washington Park Hospital at Chicago and is a young lady of charming personality. The groom is engaged in the automobile business, and a very popular young man. After spending the summer in Michigan, they will make their home in Chicago.

"There's a Reason"

CITY DOCTOR URGES EVERYONE CLEAN UP BACKYARDS, HOMES

Touches on Conditions Liable to Occur if Accumulations of Winter Months Are Not Removed. The times for spring cleaning up is at hand and it is hoped that the citizens will give special attention to cleaning up thoroughly on the home premises. It is feared that infantile paralysis may again become prevalent this summer and much can be done along the line of prevention of this and other contagious diseases if each family will see that their surroundings are made especially clean.—City Health Officer, Dr. B. Buckmaster, in his March report to the city commission.

"The excitement over the presence of scarlet fever in the city has been subsided, but there were eight deaths still up for that disease at the close of the month and one card up for measles," says the report. During March, one school room and sixty-six rooms in homes where there had been cases of scarlet fever, were fumigated. As registrar of vital statistics, Dr. Buckmaster reported he had received certificates of nine marriages, twenty-five births, twenty-six deaths, and three supplementary. Of the deaths, six were between infancy and seven years of age, three between seven and eighty, and four were infants under twelve months of age. The causes of deaths are given as pneumonia, one of the lungs, two of cancer, five diseases of the heart, and one each of uremia, arteriosclerosis, peritonitis, and appendicitis, a total of twenty-six.

CALL MEETING TO BOOST BOY SCOUTS

All Men Urged to Be Present at Conference Tomorrow Evening When Dr. J. C. Elsom Will Speak.

For the purpose of formulating definite plans for the development of the local Boy Scout organization, a meeting of all scout commissioners and men throughout the city who are interested in the movement or who have sons in the society, has been called for tomorrow evening at half past seven at the Y. M. C. A. Dr. J. C. Elsom, head of the scouts in Madison, and one of the most active leaders in the movement, has been asked to talk at the meeting, there to tell of what has been done in other cities, and to outline plans to be followed out in Janesville.

It has been felt that the local troops have reached a point where they have come to a standstill; the work here has an exceptionally good start, but to increase both in number and in activity a more active interest on the part of the citizens is essential. The scout movement, locally, is in the eyes of its backers, too, a thing that should be injected into them, a greater impetus for development, in the form of a responsibility in the city and everyone.

To arouse this interest, to point ways and means, and to coordinate the efforts of all, the reason for the meeting is given. Fathers, older brothers and all men are urged to be present. Dr. Elsom is a most capable speaker, and will bring forth discussion that will undoubtedly bear fruit.

POLICE ARREST 71 DURING PAST MONTH

All But Small Number of Total Are for Intoxication Chief's Report Shows.

There were seventy-one arrests made in the city of Janesville during the month of March, and of this number 70 were for the crime of intoxication. During the same period the police station at the city hall furnished sleeping quarters for 113 lodgers.

Fifty-four of the seventy-one persons arrested were brought into court, and the remaining seventeen were discharged from the office of Chief of Police, P. D. Chaney. Patrolman Alonzo Cain led in the number of arrests with twelve. Officer Charles Handy was next with ten. The officers were: Captain Champion, 10; Officer Rogers, eight; Patrick Slein, seven; Charles Harmon, eight; Captain Thomas Morrissey and Desk Sergeant William Cover, six each; Sergeant Champion, four and a special policeman, William Mason, four.

The causes of arrest aside from drunkenness were: violation of ordinances, 1; reckless driving of an automobile, 1; disorderly, 1; riding bicycle on walk, 9; embezzlement, 1; non-support, 1; breaking and entering, 1; attempted burglary, 1; riding motorcycle on walk, 1; suspect, 1; begging, 2.

CITY SEALER FILES REPORT FOR FIRST QUARTER OF 1917

City Sealer Walter Helms has filed his report for the first three months of the present year. It shows the official O.K. having been placed on 149 scales, 342 weights, 36 liquid measures and 12 pumps. Six weights were adjusted, two scales were condemned for repairs and four weights condemned altogether. The report will be presented to the city commission at their meeting Friday.

CITY NURSE HAS MUCH WORK DURING PAST MONTH

Sixteen new cases of illness came to the attention of Miss Elizabeth Joyce, city nurse, during the month of March, in addition to the hold-over cases from February. At her reports to the city commission, all patients still under her care. During March she made 169 calls. At the present time there are four-five cases receiving her attention. Fifteen cases have been dismissed as improved.

Wednesday's Markets.

Chicago, April 5.—New record prices were scored in yesterday's cattle trade. American and Swift both paid for beefs 20c above previous top this year and $3.15 higher than a year ago, the previous high April.

There was a sharp best selling in hog values, the best selling at $15.55, or back to last week's record top. The average gained 10c. standing $5.47 above a year ago. Average spot mostly 25c lower yesterday. The best lowest in nearly three weeks at $15. Prices are still $3.50 above a year ago, and many traders predict a further feeling. Chicago was $15.24, against $12.14 Tuesday, $14.98 a week ago, $9.77 a year ago and $6.86 two years ago.

It was largely a 15@25c higher trade in cattle yesterday, with quite a number of beef steers, principally for the kosher trade, at $13.00@15.15. Cows and heifers shared in the advance, while calves were weak to 25c lower. Quotations: Choice to fancy steers $12.85@14.15; Poor to good steers 9.80@12.35. Fat cows and heifers 7.25@11.00. Canning cows and cutters 5.50@7.15. Native bulls and stags 6.30@10.10. Feeding cattle 6.00@11.00. Hogs $15.55@15.75. 7.55@10.30. Poor to fancy veal calves 9.25@13.75.

Hog Receipts Small. Hog receipts yesterday at 21,000 were 20c below expectations, but quality showed improvements. Prices opened 2@10c higher, with instances of 20c gain, compared with Tuesday's bad finish. One load of 275-lb. butchers' hogs sold in the afternoon at $15.55. Armour's drove cost $15.10. Quotations: Bulk of sales $15.10@15.40. Heavy butchers and shir 15.30@15.55. Light butchers 15.25@15.45. Light hams 14.50@15.35. Heavy packing 14.90@15.30. WATCHFUL WAITING.
These have been days of watchful waiting in truth. There is no question but the administration would like to materially hasten the declaration of war, the passage of the universal military training bill, the order for a volunteer army of a half million men and the calling to the colors of the various guard units not already under arms. At least a start might be made in the eleventh hour preparations to defend the national honor, but obstructionists say no. They wish to resort to every possible method of handicapping the government they know. They all tricks and twists of parliamentary proceedings so that the issue may become bogged and they be placed on record as peace advocates.

Had this government begun its preparations two years ago that it now seeks to rush to completion in a few days, the necessity for action that now arises would not exist. The declaration of war, the passage of the universal military training bill, the order for a volunteer army of a half million men and the calling to the colors of the various guard units not already under arms. At least a start might be made in the eleventh hour preparations to defend the national honor, but obstructionists say no. They wish to resort to every possible method of handicapping the government they know. They all tricks and twists of parliamentary proceedings so that the issue may become bogged and they be placed on record as peace advocates.

Conscription will be needed, it is feared, to fill the ranks of the great volunteer army which is to be raised. Soldiers thus brought to the colors have not the same stamina or interest as genuine volunteers and take longer to drill, as they have not the personal interest in the work that is displayed by men who respond to the call of patriotism. Soldiers know that to be a fact and it is to be hoped that matters will take form within a day or two so that the days of watchful waiting will be over and a real start can be made.

SOLDIERS WANTED.
The Second Separate company still has vacancies in its ranks that must be filled up immediately. In view of the fact that congress is about to pass a compulsory universal military training bill, order the raising of a vast volunteer army aside from the present national guard units, it would appear to be a simple thing to secure enlistments for a home.

Enter now and do not wait to be drafted has more truth than fiction if present plans do not miscarry. The volunteer soldier has twice the advantages of those who are unwillingly forced into service and if the government enforces its proposed laws there will be no slackers. There will be no discrimination in favor of social position or wealth, but every man will be measured by his fitness for actual service.

Leading citizens are interested in the future of the local community. It has been suggested that there are young men in adjacent towns and cities who would like to show their patriotism and in view of this fact an interesting detail will be sent to Evansville and Edgerton the last of the present week to install county and state pride in the young men of this area. It is to be hoped it will be fruitful in results for as members of the military units the recruits will be with friends and acquaintances and not conscripted among strangers.

The men are needed now—not a month from now—for by that time the draft will doubtless be in force, conscription begun and no choice left of volunteering or being taken whether they will or no. By enlisting now the recruit has choice of companions and work, by the draft or conscription no choice is offered and no one knows where the men thus taken will be sent or by whom trained. Soldiers are wanted, so you young men of military age consider the two pictures. Voluntary enlistment, or waiting to be drafted.

EASTER FINERY.
Various organizations are opposing the custom of displaying new smart clothes on Easter day. The Easter hat has often seemed an incongruous element in the celebration of the Resurrection of Jesus. Still it may be no more incongruous than many other aspects of our human nature. The whole question of dress is a manifold one. If some people had less reasoned conscience, they would not spend so much money on their and feathers. To throw around the money lavishly for swell millinery and dressmaking, when that same money would feed starving families in children, or would help families in misfortune in our country, shows a vain heart and empty brain.

It is said in defense of course, that all this style parade makes work for trades depending on this kind of employment. Yet if some of this money was given to charity, it would also go to useful labor.

as anyone else, and the chances are that the style parade of Easter day encourages a lot of indifferent people to turn out to see the show. Those who come to scoff may remain to pray. Those who come to see mere display may find their hearts touched by some unexpected message.

If the Christian Endeavorers can persuade the idle rich to put into charity some of the money that goes into finery, well and good. But let no one think they must wear their old clothes on the Easter day that for twenty centuries has been a festive occasion.

It is claimed the Germans, by retreating, completely upset the allies' plans for the spring offensive. Similarly in the Cuban war, Spain upset our offensive plans by surrendering.

Confidence is expressed that congress will rise to the situation and authorize our military forces to discharge at least three popguns and five bean-shooters at the Germans.

The state of Massachusetts has voted a million for defense. According to the thirty million a day standard, this would run a modern war just forty-eight minutes.

A tremendous demand for seeds of all kinds is reported, but it is not yet sure that there will be an equal demand for hoes to keep them clear from weeds.

After putting stocks down so as to get ready to put them up again, the stock market brokers will proceed to put them up in order to get them down again.

Fourteen of the twenty-seven presidents of the United States have been enthusiastic fishermen, and some of the others have caught a good many suckers.

The dogs and the chickens of the neighborhood, and all insect pests, look upon all these gardening preparations with profound satisfaction.

With the scarcity of housemaids, the impertinence and lack of respect which so many women have shown to their servants has disappeared.

Another case of a strategic retirement to carefully prepared positions, takes place when the mischievous boys hear the police coming.

In less than a month the ball teams will be starting for the season, engaged in a close and exciting race for the cellar position.

When prices went up, meat hash became mostly potato, and now both meat and potato have nearly disappeared from it.

After being fooled by his wife, the average man is convinced that April Fool's day jokes are the resort of little minds.

The jingoist expected that congress would hurl defiance at Berlin, trusting firmly in the efficiency of the British navy.

So far Germany has not required us to pay for the torpedoes which it takes to sink our ships.

Congress will no doubt prepare for war by creating a lot of new offices.

offered by the federal government. The bill was the topic of general discussion before the town meetings on Tuesday and the word of most of the members of the legislature who have refused is to the effect that the bill meets with general favor. In order that this matter might be brought before the town meetings and the public generally, 2,000 extra copies of the bill were printed for distribution.

The measure has been favorably reported in the senate and would have been advanced in that body last week, except that the members of the legislature desired to await the sentiment and suggestions gathered at the town meetings. The bill provides for the construction of 5,000 miles of trunk line highways in the state during the next five years. The total amount of federal aid for that period is approximately $2,000,000. In accepting the gift from the federal government, the state agrees to raise an equal amount and further agrees that no part of the federal aid shall be used in keeping the trunk line in repair.

Under the terms of the bill as proposed, the counties through which the trunk line system passes must also appropriate an amount, equal to one-half of the amount spent by the federal and state government in trunk line construction within the county. The bill proposes that the 5,000 miles shall connect every county seat and every city with a population of 5,000 or over in the state. The lines of route are not designated in the bill. These will be settled by the highway commission co-operating with a special legislative committee. In order to take care of the maintenance of these lines after they are constructed the bill proposes that the auto license be increased from $5 to $10 annually and the money used for that purpose. This plan was urged by Assemblyman Weston Woodard, Chippewa county.

EXPECT HIGHWAY MEASURE TO PASS
[SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.]
Madison, Wis., April 5.—Little opposition is expected to the special highway bill before the legislature accepting the aid in trunk line construction

The Daily Novelette
THE MISSUSSES MISSING MANET.
"It's not the intrinsic value of the picture that interests me so much as the fact that it cost me $100,000," explained Mrs. Newco Reesh.
"I see," murmured Sheerluck Bones, the great detective, though he was looking at the picture with a dropping of one knee, he whipped out his 6 1/2 calibre peckknife and ran the blade rapidly through the outline of a large muddy footprint in the $5,000 Hendrad-1812 rug.
"That's my daughter, Sadie's footprint," explained Mrs. Newco Reesh as the great detective pocketed the clue. "Then it's no good to me," said the great detective, who was attentively examining the imprint of a hand on the carved ebony door. With four bold strokes of his peckknife the clue was in his pocket and a neat hole was in the door.
"That was the little mark of little Mike's little hand," murmured Mrs. Newco Reesh fondly.
"Pshaw!" muttered the great detective.
Striding to the $5,000 jickering piano, he peered at some finger marks on the gleaming surface. In another moment his ever-ready peckknife had removed a square foot of tittin wood.
"Dettie will finger things after she's been at the jam," explained Mrs. Newco Reesh with an indulgent smile.
Frowning slightly, Sheerluck Bones left the house, remarking that he would return to finish his investigation when there was no one to disturb him.

Whoever you are, wherever you live, whatever you do, you will find profit and pleasure in reading every week, all year 'round.

The COUNTRY GENTLEMAN

The Country Gentleman is edited for the up-to-date farmer, his wife, his children and for people who are interested in farming as a business or a recreation. Its departments correspond to the departments of the farm: Field Methods, Poultry, Livestock, Fruit Growing, Market Gardening, Flowers, National Farm News.

Live farmers who are doing up-to-date things exchange views and experiences in its columns. They'll tell you how to turn losses into profits; how to make money you never dreamed of.

You'll like the special articles each week and the entertaining, stirring fiction. Four pages of fascinating, instructive pictures, gathered from all parts of the world, are shown in intaglio, the most beautiful method of reproduction in any farm paper.

I will send you 52 issues of The Country Gentleman—an issue every single week for a year—for only $1. Once you subscribe, the dollar will look mighty small by comparison. It's the biggest dollar's worth I know of.

I'll see that your copies start coming without delay, if you say the word. Phone or drop me a postal. I'm on the job.

News Notes from Movieland

—BY DAISY DEAN—

Edwin H. Blasfield, famous mural painter, now steps forward to explain the appeal of movies. There's a physical reason for it, he says, so broad it covers humanity, and so deep it reaches into the remotest past. Cave-dwelling "carrot-diggers" learned to speak long before they learned to write or read. But they learned to observe long before they could speak a language. No written or spoken message could reach the mind so quickly or vividly as the thing seen. Blasfield says there is no reason to wonder, when science set pictures in motion, that their appeal was wide and great. He says difficulties in the way of giving moving pictures the quality of a fine art are many, but he believes in time they may achieve it, "with great patience and intelligent study."

Blasfield says something in this direction is attempted in the recent commendations of the best movies by the new Photoplay league, whose members include Blasfield, E. H. Sothorn and C. D. Gibson. VAMPIRES TAKE NOTICE! Young women who feel fate has been unkind by preventing them from acting vampire roles for the movies will have their chance when the Actors' Fund Fair is held at the Grand Central Palace, New York, early in May. The costumes worn by Theda Bara, Florence Reed, Olga Petrova, Pauline Frederick, and other actresses who have won success in wicked roles have been kept in a studio fitted up for the purpose of making pictures. It will be open season for amateur vampires. After the films are developed they will be exhibited before a board of judges composed of Harrison Fisher, Charles Dana Gibson, M. Nikolaki, Helen Dryden, and R. X. Leventhal, and the three whose breathing seems the most labored will be engaged by film companies.

Lehua Waiahu, descendant of the queens of Hawaii, is to appear in a movie made from Robert Louis Stevenson's Hawaiian story, "The Bottle Imp." It will star Sussue Hayakawa.

Charles Conklin, hero of many movies, recently that a new member of the company over-acted his part. This was in the scene he kicked the hero downstairs.

The accused was a beautiful woman. Under the circumstances her examination was purely a matter of form; still legal formalities had to be observed. "I understand," said the detective, "that during the absence of your husband you shot a burglar?" "I did," the beautiful lady admitted. "What became of him?" "Why, the other burglar took him away." "Which other burglar?" "The one I shot at."—New York Times.

Producers who objected to the word money are registering anguish. A new phrase which takes the place of "acting in the movies" is "making faces for 'em."

MYERS THEATRE.

One hundred dollars' worth of prizes will be given away at the Old Fashioned Fiddlers' Contest at Myers theatre, Janesville, Wis., on Monday, April 9th. These prizes are on display in the window of the Janesville Electric company. Stop and look at them. If you can play a fiddle or any musical instrument by ear, or can jig or clog dance, we should like to have you enter this contest. It starts at 8:30 and it costs you nothing to take part. If you have any friends who are musicians and can play by ear, tell them about this contest, as it is impossible for us to see every one personally.

MYERS THEATRE.

"The Little Domino," which scored one of the biggest successes of the season, will play an engaging act at the Myers theatre. The advance sheet sale and reservations show that Janesville knows how to appreciate a truly first class musical comedy. The production bears the stamp of the impresario, who has lent his vast experience and knowledge of what is really excellent in musical comedy to the talent of the young Frenchman, Charles Cuvillier, the author of the score, which is produced on a scale of magnificence and artistic splendor which sets a new standard in musical production.

The core of the piece is a constant succession of bewitching and captivating musical numbers; the scenic effects are elaborately beautiful and the costumes of the cast are gorgeous in their up-to-date-ness. There is a wealth of irresistible comedy furnished by a quintet of fun-makers. A travesty of classic dances by four of the comedians in the second act is screamingly funny. The whole atmosphere of the production is one of joyousness and gaiety that is projected across the footlights and reflected by every member of the audience from balcony to boxes. Yvonne Darle in the title role is decidedly winsome and chic. Her magnificent soprano voice is a rare treat, especially on the very high notes, remarkably clear and sweet and under perfect control. Bradford Kirkbride makes a handsome and romantic young lover with an unusually splendid voice. In his duets with Miss Darle the two voices blend with a beauty that thrills the audience. Miss Marie Hamilton is a charming spito in her impersonation of the fascinating Leonie D'Andorcat. She has ample opportunity to display her delightful mezzo soprano registers. Joseph Caray and Edward Crawford, the two principal comedians, call out some side-splitting laughs. The droll style and comical facial expression of one and the breezy personality of the other combined with a rare pedal agility, are irresistible. A great number of dancing numbers are strikingly original. Almost every kind of dance is shown from classic interpretations of modern society steps and dancing.

It is a common thing, nowadays, to hear some boxer that has a certain punch with which he has done wonderful things and the idea is conveyed that this particular boxer might have a patent on this particular punch, or that it was some special method of boxing which he had devised and which no one else could acquire. But a little study and observation of this boxer's so-called great punches show there is

MAY BAR GERMANS FROM CITIZENSHIP AFTER WAR COMES

Applicants for German Birth for Second Papers May Be Turned Down After War Is Declared.

Applicants for second papers, in case the applicants are natives of Germany, who make their application after war is declared, may be turned down according to an interpretation of the statute with regard to alien enemies. This will probably not affect persons of German birth who have already made application for second papers, but those cases will not be heard until a later date, following the declaration of a state of war.

In Rock county the next naturalization date is June 12, at which time 56 applications will be heard, of which 24 are natives of Germany, 2 of Austria and 2 of Turkey. It is not likely that there will be any objection opposed to the admission of these applicants on the ground that this country may be at war with their native land at the time that the hearing is held. The same is true of ten Germans and one Austrian recorded for the September naturalization hearing date, Sept. 29, but German applicants for second papers recorded after the declaration of war exists between the United States and Germany, will probably be turned down.

A recent circular sent out from the government's naturalization office at Washington and received at the office of Clerk of the Court Jesse Barie, gives information with regard to the status of enemy aliens who have made their declaration of intention, stating that such declarations will probably be given consideration by the government in any restrictive measure which it may take with regard to enemy aliens.

With regard to declarations of intention or so-called first papers the letter says:

"A declaration of intention does not confer citizenship; it is merely a preliminary to a petition for naturalization, except that in some few states an alien declarant is permitted to vote and in certain restricted conditions the secretary of state is authorized, in his discretion, to issue passports thereon for a limited term, but not to provide protection in the country of nativity and it is understood that passports on declarations of intentions are not being issued at this time."

The department of state has advised this department that it cannot, of course, state definitely in advance what effect declarations of intention in the case of citizens of this country, by those who may become alien enemies for a time, will have with regard to such restrictions as may be placed upon such aliens, although it has no doubt such declarations will be given due consideration."

The letter further states that it is the opinion of the naturalization department that the law prohibits the naturalization of an alien during the period of war with the country of his birth, but that it does not prevent the filing of a declaration of intention or petition for naturalization by such person, even during the existence of a state of war."

Natives of Russia, it is pointed out, should for the present renounce allegiance in the naturalization papers and proceedings to "The Present Government of Russia."

WELL KNOWN AFTON MAN
DIES AFTER LONG ILLNESS

(Special to the Gazette.)
Afton, April 5.—Fred Holzappel passed away at his home at seven o'clock last evening following an illness which had continued throughout the winter. For many years Mr. Holzappel had lived on his farm south of the village, and had won the friendship and respect of the community. Conscientious, he had all the care for detail which characterizes the German people, and his efficient conduct of the farm with his pleasant geniality made for him a reputation that will live for long.

Mr. Holzappel was born in Germany sixty-seven years ago, but for the last thirty-five years had lived in Afton. He leaves to mourn his loss his widow, a son, Herman of Afton, and four daughters: Mrs. H. D. Schoof of Baraboo; Mrs. George McAllister, Mrs. H. P. Bufo and Mrs. C. A. Anderson, all of Afton. He is also survived by nine grandchildren.

Funeral services will be conducted on Saturday at one o'clock from the home and at half past one from the Afton church interment will be in the Afton cemetery.

EMPHASIS PLACED ON SAFETY ELEMENT AT LEWIS FACTORY

(By Mrs. Abbie Helms.)

"Safety first" has been the ideal of the Lewis Knitting company in the last few years, and they take special pride in the fact that they have installed every safeguard to prevent loss of life by fire, which is possible. Not only those features enforced by the industrial commission for mills of this class, but those suggested also by them. Indeed, so nearly model are the work rooms in this respect that photographs were made of them and published in the bulletins of the commission. The floors and stairways are all of concrete and steel construction. The stairways are all in separate wings for the safety of help, and there are no openings between floors in the work rooms. Automatic sprinkler systems are installed and metal covers for doors and windows close automatically in case of fire.

Electric fans are used in the work rooms and this winter an exhaust fan to take out the winter air was added to the equipment. The sanitary conveniences are especially excellent, plenty of modern toilets and a long range of porcelain lavatories being provided. A large pleasant rest room with rockers, couches and tables can be used whenever convenient by the girls, and an electrical equipment will heat water or make coffee if desired.

Owing to the central location of the plant, most of the girls go home at noon, but sometimes in stormy weather several of them stay, at that time. The company also prides itself on the fact of the long service of their employees. Their fore-lady has been with them twelve years and most of their women workers have been with them over five years. They rarely lose a capable helper, except when they marry and start homes of their own. Their policy is not to take on very young girls nor to hire the float-very order of help that comes and goes. They prefer the mature, careful kind of labor that will become competent permanent help when they are trained for the work.

At present they could add to their force of one hundred girls, perhaps twenty-five more, in different lines of work—finishing, winding, mending and in the packing department. They pay a guaranteed wage from the start, according to the kind of work done, but most of their work is piece work. It is clean work, there is plenty of light and air, and men are hired to do the heavier parts of the operations. In fact there are over forty men working in the mill at the present time. There is no dull season in the business, the mill having never been closed, even for a week in over twenty years. The market is good for all types of merchandise they manufacture; in fact they could sell more if they had increased facilities and more labor in sight. They have had to hire extra storage room outside the plant for various purposes.

The policy of the Lewis company in regard to their help, as outlined by their manager, is "to secure only the better class of employees and then to treat them so fairly and well that they will want to stay and so become a permanent asset to the institution."

The cleanliness of the buildings is carefully attended to, the whole premises being cleaned up by vacuum cleaners several times daily, and the halls and stairs swept thoroughly. A day and a night man are employed whose duty it is to attend to this work. This only adds to the sanitation of the buildings, but also decreases the fire risk as the cotton waste from the operations is very inflammable.
